

Naren R. Ramakrishna

MD, PHD

Director of Neurologic and Pediatric Radiation Oncology
MD Anderson Cancer Center Orlando, Florida, USA

Specialization

Neurological and pediatric radiation oncology

Spoken Language

English

Education & Professional Experience

- Earned a medical degree and a doctorate in cell biology and genetics from Cornell University Medical College
- Completed an internship in internal medicine at Mount Sinai Hospital, followed by a residency in radiation oncology at Johns Hopkins Hospital
- Did a Koch Research Fellowship in gene therapy at the Johns Hopkins Hospital Oncology Center and Brady Urological Institute
- Worked as a professor of radiation oncology at Harvard Medical School
- Served as the chief of CNS radiation oncology at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute and Brigham and Women's Hospital
- Led the CNS Radiation Oncology fellowship program
- Certified diplomat of both the United States Medical Licensing Examination and the American Board of Radiology
- Director of neurological and pediatric radiation oncology at MD Anderson Cancer Center Orlando in Florida

Contributions and Achievements

- Extensive research contributions published in medical journals and textbooks
- Frequent guest speaker at conferences and universities
- Received the AACR-Glaxo Welcome Oncology Scholar Award

“The Novalis standard helps to ensure that medical staff and patients know clinics are adhering to high-quality standards of patient safety.”